PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASS OF
PITTSFIELD HIGH SCHOOL
PITTSFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS
JUNE 1958

To
MISS MADELINE E. PFEIFFER

who for many years in many ways has given so much of herself to the senior classes of P. H. S.

DEDICATION

Her aim is always to make us think.

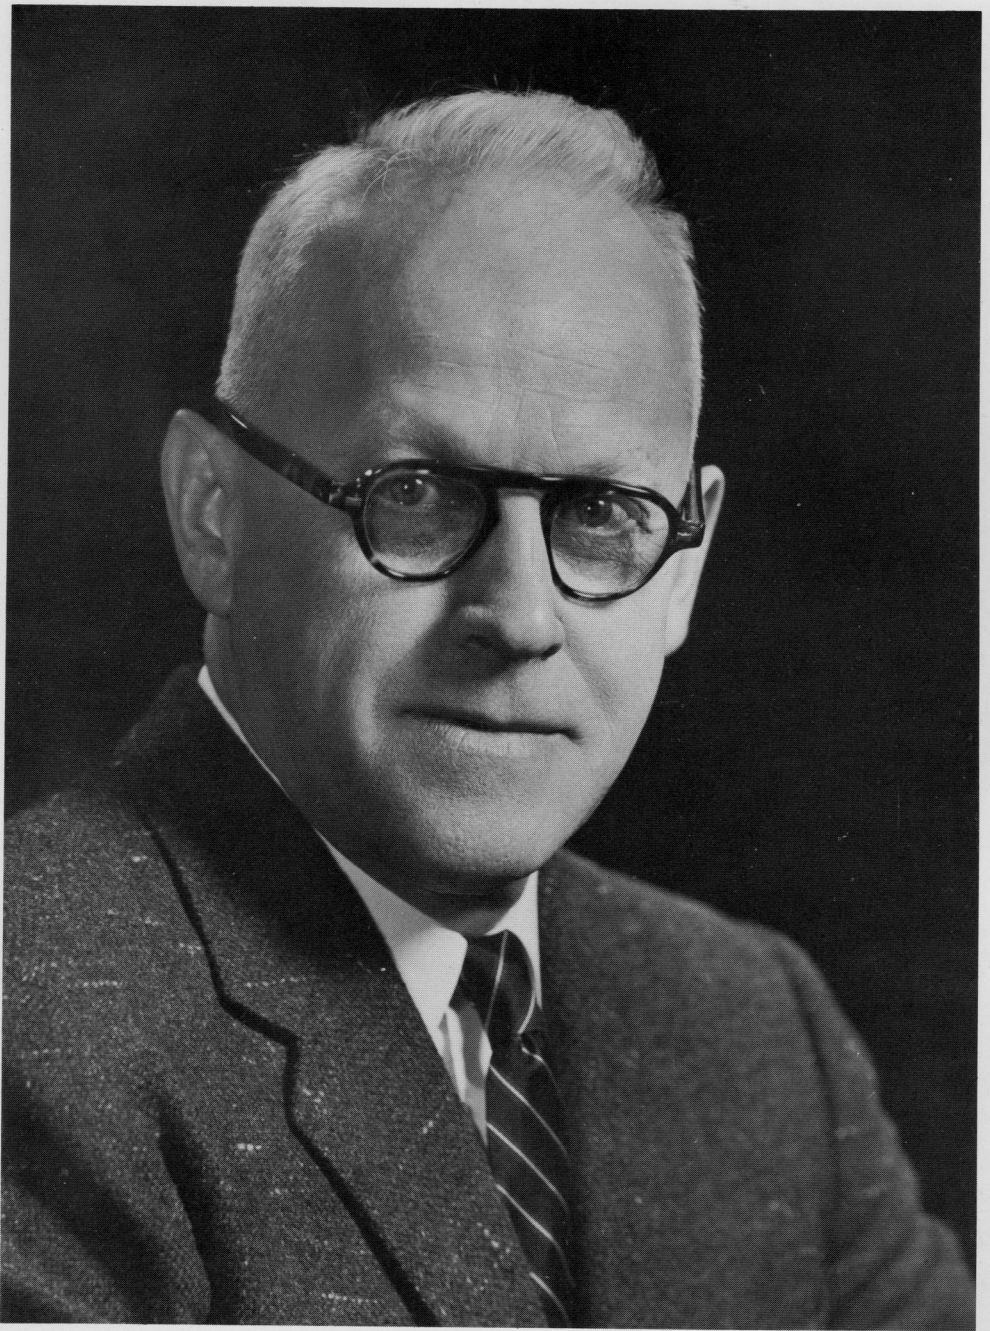

A helpful smile.

Learning is a curious process—it may be simply the cold, methodical accumulation of facts, or it may be the vital awakening to the world about us wrought through the efforts of a gifted teacher. Such a teacher is our Miss Pfeiffer.

Countless graduates of P. H. S. have felt the influence of the unassuming, gentlemanly woman who, as Chairman of the English Department and Senior English instructor, has made composition the bread and literature the dessert in their lives. Her role of faculty adviser of student publications had, until recently, more than occupied her leisure moments; yet she had ever the time to stimulate her students with her inspiring guidance and competent direction.

The gift of her time was a very valuable one, but she gave us so much more—her interest and understanding when we needed it most; her kindly humor; her personal sincerity; the model of a life that squared with her work.

As her picture in later years will become for us a symbol not only of a personality but of an experience, we hope this yearbook will be for her a symbol of our gratitude for her contributions to our school and, more important, to our lives.

MR. MILTON J. HERRICK

To Mr. Herrick, our friend and counselor through two trying and difficult years—for your concern for our class and our activities, for your patience with us, for your readiness to listen to our problems, and for your gentle, amiable way of advising us, the Senior Class of 1958 would like to express its deep gratitude. You, Mr. Herrick, have won our highest respect, our profound thanks, and, above all, a lasting place in all of our hearts.

MR. JOHN C. CARMODY

"What are you slowing down for, Woody?"

"When I was a boy . . ."

This fall the students of P. H. S. learned with regret of the retirement of their beloved teacher, Mr. John C. Carmody. We were disappointed to think that we and future students of our school would be deprived of the privilege of working with and benefiting from such a great personality. "Coach," whose exemplary life, unquestionable fairness, and intense school spirit have enriched our lives and the lives of countless graduates, will be very much missed at P. H. S. in the years to come. May his retirement hold all the joys and blessings he so richly deserves.

FOREWORD

"Out of childhood into manhood
Now had grown my Hiawatha,
Skilled in all the craft of hunters,
Learned in all the lore of old men,
In all youthful sports and pastimes,
In all manly arts and labors."

Elizabeth
Henry '58

For the theme of our yearbook, we, the Class of 1958, have chosen Longfellow's The Song Of Hiawatha to portray our progress throughout our high school days. Just as this poem depicts Hiawatha's growth to manhood, it is the purpose of our yearbook to trace the growth and maturity of our class.

Looking back on the trial of our years at Pittsfield High School, we can view our growth in knowledge, ability and respect in the eyes of others. From the time we set our foot on the rugged path as uncertain sophomores, we have been tried; like the Indian braves, we have been challenged and have met the test, until now we stand at this summit, our Graduation Day.

Stretching before us lies the future—other challenges which must be faced resourcefully, using all the abilities that we have gained as students of Pittsfield High School.

ALMA MATER

Words by Esther Kierstead '38
and Friend Kierstead '39
Tune: "All Through the Night"

Guardian elm trees cast their shadows
O'er thy ivied walls;
Sons and daughters ever loyal
Through thy honored halls.
Pittsfield High School, Pittsfield High School,
Alma Mater dear,
Help us to preserve thy honor
Through each coming year.

Great has been thy former record,
Greater will it be
As the future generations
Sing their praise to thee.
Proud are we who through thy portals
Into life do pass;
Help us ever to be worthy,
Each and every class.

JUNIOR PROM

Our Junior Prom is a memory, but a most happy one. It was our first big venture.

We worked enthusiastically and willingly under the able direction of co-chairman, Mary Carolan and Tony Sottile. We had an idea—a good idea—and somehow we made it become real. Seemingly overnight, the gym became a lovely southern garden, successfully carrying out our theme, "Plantation Ball."

As we entered the gym on the gala night, our eyes were drawn to the immense facade of a southern mansion, complete with veranda and towering pillars. Flanking the gracious home were small shrubs

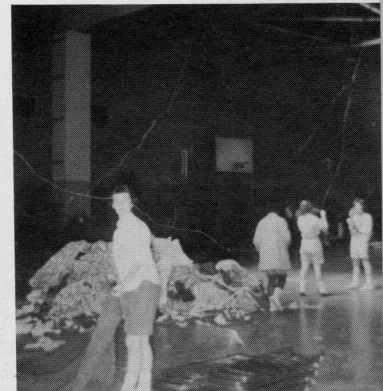

"I could have danced all night!"

"Hokey-Pokey" 'n Polly!

and bushes, for which eager Juniors had scoured many a neighborhood. A stone wall of paper fenced our garden, over which stretched the blue crepe paper heavens, studded with tinsel stars. Near some benches was our pièce de résistance, a small fountain softly bubbling a weak, but triumphant, stream of water.

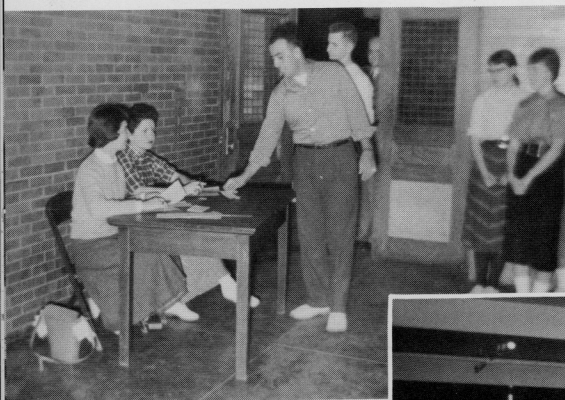

Those were the ingredients, but the night was more than crepe paper skies and a fountain. The night was more than a date, more than a dance. Our prom brought a sense of accomplishment and satisfaction and, above all, the realization of a dream.

The day after the night before.

P. H. S. BAND

Every Tuesday and Friday sundry noises emanate from the direction of Room 108. Don't be frightened. It's only the band practicing. Despite these odd sounds the finished product shows finished artistry.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra better not rest on its laurels because the Pittsfield High orchestra, directed by Mr. Morton Wayne, is ready to give it some stiff competition.

CHORALEERS

Every Thursday afternoon the Choraleers practice for their concerts—always very pleasing and satisfactory performances.

Our 1958 Varsity cheerleaders, in an effort to stimulate student interest in sports and to boost our rather lagging school spirit, came up with a really terrific idea in a P.H.S. Pep Club. Under the leadership of the cheerleaders and two officers from each class, the Pep Club has really fired up enthusiasm. Members meet two or three times a month to learn new cheers, review the old, and present ideas for our rallies. At home and away games a reserved section, packed solidly with purple beanie-clad Pep Clubbers, blasts the air with more spirit and zest than the school has seen in many years.

"THE TAMING OF THE SHREW"

A clever Western version of The Taming of the Shrew was presented by the students of Pittsfield High School on March sixth and seventh. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Boland, the cast assumed the familiar roles of the Shakespearean comedy set in Padua, Arizona, in the 1870's. Around six hundred hours were spent in producing, in designing and making the brightly colored costumes and scenery, in rehearsing, in gathering properties, and in doing all the odd jobs necessary for such a production. All this effort was rewarded by the enthusiastic audience reception.

RECORD ON THE GRIDIRON

The Pittsfield High School football team started the 1957 season on an optimistic note. The boys worked long and hard at the vigorous training imposed by the extremely able nucleus of men that comprise our coaching staff. At pre-season scrimmages the teamwork and ability of the boys improved, and with their resounding victory over Springfield Trade, a school no other team in our league could vanquish, a victorious season seemed to be ahead.

While we were still riding high, our balloon was punctured by one catastrophe after another. Captain Matt Collins was incapacitated with an emergency appendectomy . . . Frank Starro suffered a broken leg . . . the flu epidemic gained a firm foothold on the squad, rendering at least half the team inactive. Severely crippled, the boys and coaches began again the painstaking work of building a winning team. The hard work paid off in a smashing victory over Adams High. In spite of all mishaps, Pittsfield High placed third in the Class A Western Massachusetts League, and would have tied for first if the season had culminated with a Pittsfield win over Saint Joseph's High.

BASKETBALL

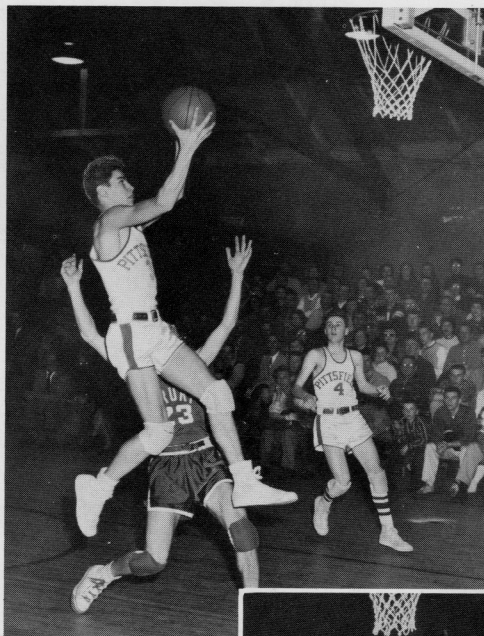

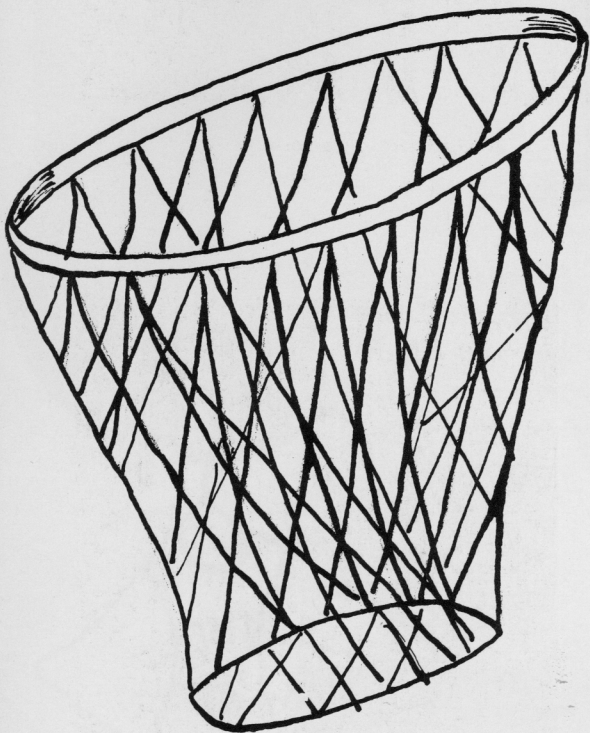

The talk of Western Massachusetts was the P.H.S. basketball team of 1958. Our "Hickey Hoopsters" showed superb teamwork sparked by unusually talented players. Captained by the tall and agile Kirk Leslie, the boys were undefeated in fifteen consecutive games, bowing only to Adams in a regular season that saw them win nineteen games. Fine play by Kirk, Mike Mole, Charlie Mancivalano, Ricky Hoeske, Fred Cox, Willie Greene and a fine set of substitutes brought our hoopsters to the City, N.B.L., and County Championships.

Every day after school the P.H.S. ski team practices at the Pittsfield State Forest under Coach John Nesbit. The boys have put in many long, hard hours of work, and although severely hampered by the incapacitation of last year's regular, Dave Dougherty, and then, later, of Captain Doug Woodard, they have made a fine record. The team's hard work paid off with the award of an invitation to the New England Meet to which the top three teams of each New England state are nominated. Nice work, boys!

PUSHING THE PUCK

The 1958 hockey team, under their new coach Frank Blowe, after a violent attack of early season wobbles, recovered in time to have themselves quite a respectable season. Depending upon the vagaries of the weather to give them rink conditions for satisfactory workouts, the boys played hard, both in scrimmage and in games. Before a very small but appreciative crowd, the flashing blades and swinging sticks of the P.H.S. puck pushers met a rugged schedule.

HISTORY

"WHENCE THESE LEGENDS AND TRADITIONS?"

*In the campfires flick'ring shadows
Indian braves would fashion stories;
In the smoke wreathes they saw memories.
Dreams they spun of warriors' glories.*

So we, standing confidently on the brink of commencement in the warmth and glow of our success, see rising from the golden light of yesterday memories of varied hues — some the bright, flaming colors of joy, others the fading ashes of regret.

Let's go back to the beginning — the day we entered P.H.S. for the first time. Many of us who had never taken more than a passing glance at the school were suddenly struck with awe at the way the dome seemed to dominate the entire building. Undaunted, we entered the doors to begin our career at Pittsfield High.

As the hours stretched into days, the homework assignments seemed to get longer and longer. Hardly a day would pass when the voice of a sophomore was not heard delivering a public denunciation against one of his teachers—or rather against the homework which he or she had given him.

For weeks we were just those "callow sophomores," always in someone's way. Finally, however, the first rally arrived, and we were participating in an activity attended by the entire student body. We belonged at last! This pleasant experience was repeated many times in our three years at P.H.S.

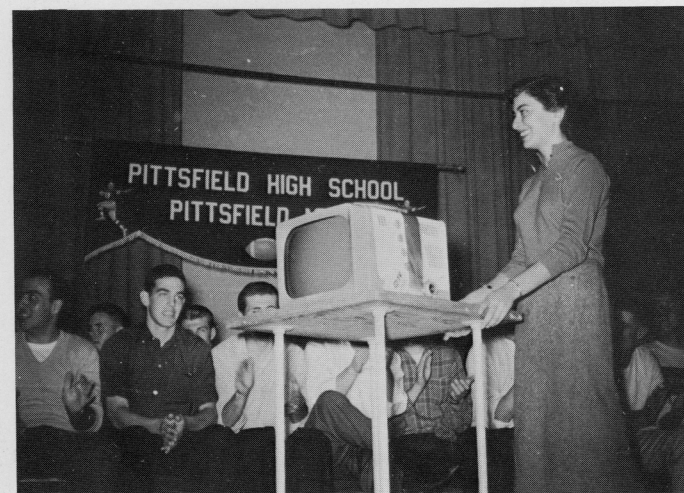

In that first year our moments of glory were few. Bad weather and cancellations plagued our football team, but student spirit always ran high. After gaining the Berkshire County and City Championship, the basketball team made an appearance at the Western Massachusetts Tournament.

In April the school played host to the All-State Music Festival. Many of our students, including the band, participated in this weekend filled with music.

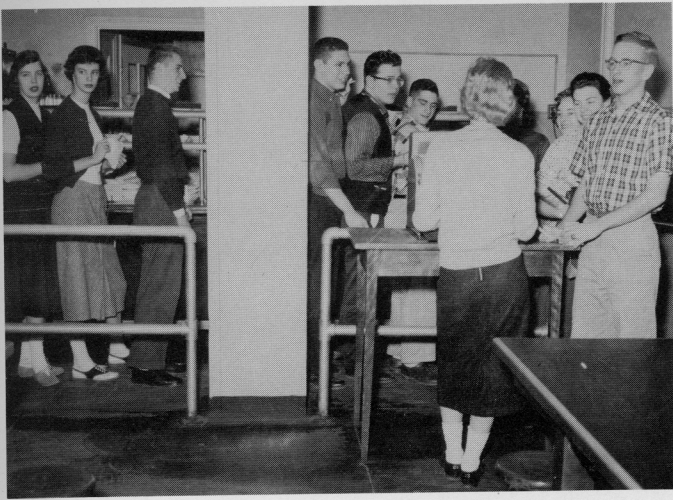

Throughout the year we had joined such student activities as the Students' Pen Club, Tri-Hi-Y, Junior Achievement, the band, and the Glee Club; but as "Books, books, and more books!"

Mabel rolls out the T. V. for Coach Carmody at the rally of the year.

Lunch—our favorite period.

the Juniors and Seniors prepared for their individual class activities, we could only watch and wait and dream of our days of glory.

After a summer of relaxation we returned to school ready for another year of study and hard work, this time with a confidence which we had not felt as sophomores. Walking down the hall that first day, most of us could not help being amused and even critical of the incoming sophomores. Were we ever that young and confused!

We were soon back in the routine, and activities flourished. Those autumn afternoons every inch of school ground was put to use. Staccato commands of the Cadette drill leaders mingled with the sharp cries of football coaches and players, while the girls' hockey team and J.V. cheerleading candidates vied for jumping space behind the school. (Many a junior girl was limping around the school and longing for hot baths during those tryout days).

Election line starts on crutches.

"Oops, late again!"

Football was the topic of the moment, and with some of our own class athletes appearing in the varsity line, prospects looked good. Rallies were spirited. The Cadettes introduced the bears as our school mascot, and soon not only purple and white streamers, but the mascots were a "must" for every game. Probably the most memorable event of the season was our traditional game with St. Joseph's in which the Purple Bears scored a tremendous win over our arch rivals, the Purple and Gold.

Report cards jolted some of us to the reality that school meant work too. Assignments never seemed to disappear. Christmas, however, not only brought two weeks of vacation; but our beautiful assembly, "The Christmas Mystery," imbued in us the true spirit of the season.

If football had been a success, our basketball season was a triumph. The P.H.S. squad crushed opponent after opponent, not stopping until they had secured Gym Exhibition—What a line!

"Aw-c'mon! I want to dance. These Junior Prom tickets cost me enough."

"Is that your ring or head size?"

"Who needs a ladder to put up the ceiling!"

"8¾! Are you sure that's right?"

these impressive honors: the City, Northern Berkshire, and County Championships. Invited to enter the Western Massachusetts Tournament in Springfield, our team made a splendid showing against some of the toughest teams in the state.

In early February the long awaited bulletin arrived with the news that the Class of '58 would be formally organized with the election of class officers. Almost immediately posters of all shapes and sizes popped out in every spare inch of space, while the campaigners distributed tags and various "bribes" to the students. It was for us a proud moment as we flipped the levers on the city election machines to indicate our preference. When the votes were tallied the Junior Class was born under the leadership of President Jerry Powers.

Within days, it seemed, class rings were placed on display in the school lobby. After we had selected our favorite style, only a minor detail remained—where were we going to get the money? After considerable scrounging, the boys were able to make the final payments, only to bid a hasty good-bye to the ring as the "steady" appropriated it.

In April of our junior year the P.H.S. band, after considerable fund raising, departed via bus for Washington to participate in the Cherry Blossom Festival. What a time they had and what tales they told us when they returned!

Maplewood Essays—"Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness?"

With May came our Junior Prom, the theme of which was Plantation Ball. Night after night the committee worked to move the South into the gym, and their efforts were rewarded by the pleased faces of their classmates and guests.

After the ball was over, the hard work and study for final exams began. Even then we had time to enjoy the fun and frolic of the Gym Exhibition. The boys' gym team chinned, swung and tumbled with dexterity; with equal skill the girls danced the story of Cinderella. All these events were climaxed in that breathless moment when our class officers slowly marched across the stage on Class Day to light those candles that symbolized our new responsibility.

In September we returned to P.H.S., but there was something different this year, for we had finally reached the last plateau in our public school education—we were seniors at last!

A few weeks after school began, a new spirit and enthusiasm was running so high that a Pep Club was organized under the leadership of Doug Woodard. At all games a solid section of Pep Club members,

"Well, someone has to hold up the walls!"

Heralding the Christmas Assembly.

"All good things must end. Back we come after Christmas vacation."

"Das St. Joe Basketball Team" invaded our rally.

"Are her pistons still popping?"

Position is everything in life—Prom decorations.

The Cadette Talent Show really brought out the "best" in us!

sporting purple beanies and club buttons, added real zest to the proceedings. Wahconah Park really rocked that fall!

Class organization began early with the usual long strings of tags, blotters, and other candidates' gifts festooning the girls' pocketbooks. When the votes were in, our new president was Charlie Mancivalano, who proved himself not only an able class leader but a good song leader at all our rallies as well.

We were so busy with yearbook and "Student's Pen" deadlines, senior pictures, club activities — and, of course, homework — that time just flew by. With December came the Christmas assembly staged by the seniors. The program combined both humor and reverence, while our decorations added a real spirit of Christmas festivity.

In January the Cadettes produced a school variety show to raise money for a Cadette scholarship. All of us enjoyed watching our classmates perform for such a worthy cause.

A senior production in January—perhaps not so enjoyable—was the Maplewood Essay over which we labored long and complained even longer. With its completion, however, we knew we had passed another milestone on our way to graduation.

Departmentals found us trying to cram our heads with facts just as the arrival of senior pictures found the girls trying to cram their wallets with pictures.

Early in March an all-school Western version of "The Taming of the Shrew" was presented for two nights in the auditorium under the sponsorship of the senior class. The appearance of Shakespearian characters in Western garb brought down the house. Not to be outdone, in May we displayed our talents in the annual senior class play. A fine cast and hard working committees gave us another night to remember.

In rapid succession then came the Athletic Awards Assembly, the annual concert of the combined musical organizations and finally the long-awaited Class Day. As we donned our caps and gowns that morning and solemnly marched down the aisles of the auditorium, we experienced mixed emotions—a strange sadness at ending our days at P.H.S. and a thrill of achievement as we realized that now we were so close to that moment toward which we had been working.

The next evening brought our senior banquet and Prom—gay moments to remember for a long time. After-Prom party at Eastover and breakfast parties at home ended with weary seniors reporting for graduation practice at noon.

Sunday, to the solemn strains of "Pomp and Circumstances," we marched once more up the mall in front of the school as we did that September morning three years ago. Once more, just as we did that first day, a surge of anticipation came over us as we considered the door that was opening before us—this time, the door to the future.

*Now the campfires' warmth is fading;
Indian braves see only embers.
But though smoke and flame soon vanish,
Tales they told the heart remembers.*

"The Taming of the Shrew"—Fashions certainly are changing.

"I'll swap my picture for three of yours."

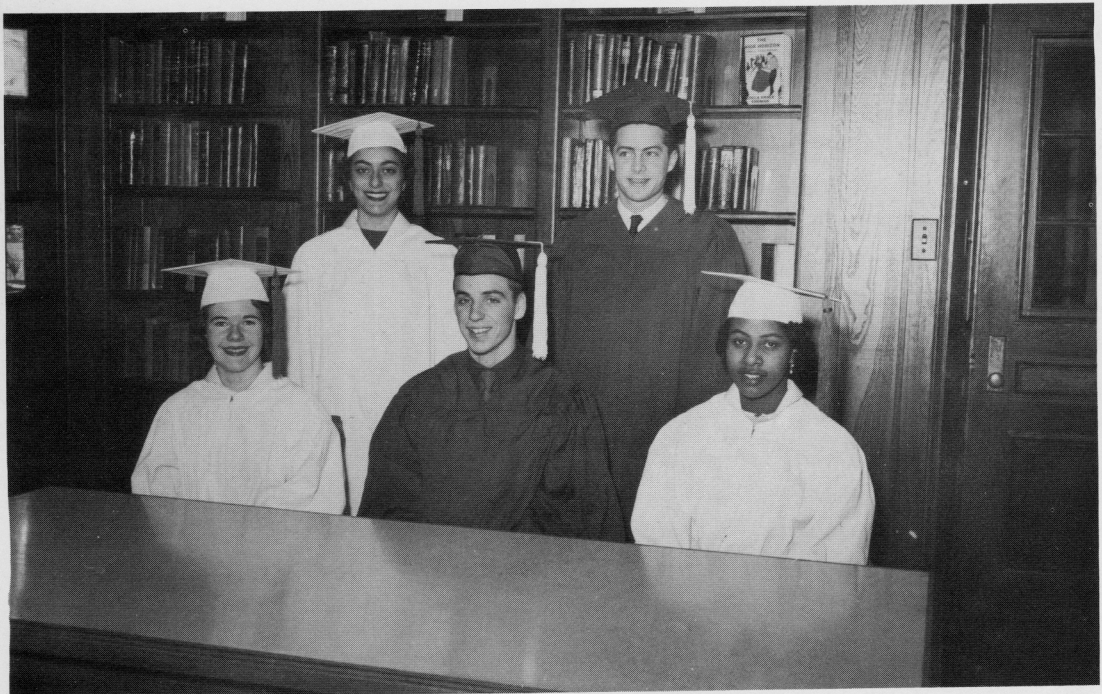

"You mean I can't get into Smith College either!"

When Hiawatha was a boy,
Way back in time of old;
A very rugged life was led,
By warriors brave and bold.

No modern day conveniences,
No chance of shopping ease;
They fashioned clothes from animal skins,
And shot their food from trees.

I wonder if they ever sat,
Before their fireside;
And wondered 'bout the times to come,
Where changes now abide.

The modern Hiawatha,
Finds all he needs—and more;
In the supply of items found,
In England Brothers Store.

Six floors of top-rate merchandise,
And friendly service too;
For one hundred years unailing,
Their store's been serving you.

From high-heeled pumps to moccasins,
For every Jack and Jill;
England's "Trading Post" is tops—
They always fill the bill!
